VOL. XXI.

STANFORD, KY., TUESDAY, AUGUST 22, 1893.

NO. 50

WILLOW GROVE.

—Miss Ella Bailey, of Austin, Texas, has been visiting relatives in this vicinity. Mr. Robert Lewis is in the Cumberland mountains recuperating.

—It does not speak volumes of praise for a neighborhood with as many children and as many good people in it as this one, to have no Sunday school. Miss Betsy Spoonamore, however, deserves great praise for her efforts in trying to get up one recently. She visited a number of homes and tried her best to get the children and the heads of the families in the notion to organize a Sunday school, but they said they wanted to "rest" on Sundays. They had better be getting a move on themselves, individually and collectively, that they may be prepared to sure enough "rest" in the sweet bye-and-bye.

—In connection with the fact that Miss Georgia Lewis won the Interior Journal's prize in spelling at the Teachers' Institute last week, it would be in place to state that she is a bright member of a bright family. Her father, Dr. T. M. Lewis, is a well-informed gentleman on most any subject, a faithful and successful physician, and her mother, who was Miss Lizzie Alcorn, a sister of Judge James W. Alcorn, is possessed of an unusual amount of good, old-fashioned, hard sense. Their oldest son, Albert A. Lewis, is a newspaper man of recognized ability; Miss Maggie is a highly accomplished young lady, possessing musical talent to an eminent degree; Prof. Lucile Lewis was the youngest and only teacher in Royle county to get a first-class school certificate last year and their other two children, Robert and John, have just any amount of "horse sense." Miss Georgia being given the Mt. Xenia school over about 18 competitors, last week, is no small matter itself, but it proves that talent and hard work are always recognized.

—Mr. Jack Bosley says that in the year 1835 a well was bored by a Mr. John Shackelford on a farm which afterward passed into the hands of the honored and venerable democrat, George W. Tribble, Esq., who some 40 years ago arranged comfortable seats under the wide spreading branches of the innumerable shade trees surrounding it and it proved to be a boon to mankind for at least 25 miles around, the people from Stanford, Danville and other places, congregating there almost daily and especially on Sunday afternoons, and whiling away the hours in a pleasant manner. It became widely known as "Tribble's Sulphur Well," and the strong believers in the efficacy of its waters were innumerable. During the war the soldiers of both sides who participated in "the late unpleasantness" used to frequently come there, and doubtless scattered all over the United States to-day are those of their number who remember some pleasant incident connected with this once famous camping ground. In after years, however, the water, I am told, partially ceased to flow and "when the well dried up, then they missed the water, you know." At present the farm on which this well was located, is owned by Mr. Joshua B. Adams (about two miles from here, near the Hanging Fork bridge) and he has just re-bored it, finding at something less than 100 feet a strong stream of sulphur and chalybeate water and consequently the neighborhood is happy and you can now "come to the fountain, drink and live." It will now become widely known as "Adams' Sulphur Well," and if you'll keep drinking this water I'll guarantee you'll never thirst.

DANVILLE.

(Advocate.)

—The Fair Company is able to declare a small dividend from its last exhibition.

—The stock of C. D. Portwood sold at assignee's sale for $4,105. It was appraised at $9,000.

—Mr. Charles McLowell has been elected recorder to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Judge Alex Anderson.

—Jesse P. Riddle delivered Saturday last to Dick Gentry two car loads of cattle at 5 cents, weight 1,525 and J. W. Allen one car at same, weight 1,530.

—A. M. King and his brother, Claude, have returned from an extended trip through New England and Nova Scotia. Mr. King was greatly benefited by his vacation, and says he feels better than he has for years.

—There are 14 men in and about Perryville whose ages aggregate 1,100 years, an average of 78 years and some months. The oldest of the 14 is Mr. John B. McAfee, who is 90 years of age and still works at his trade of blacksmith.

—The World's Fair is booming, the attendance Saturday reaching over 100,000.

—John Samuels, a highly respected farmer in Montgomery county, drowned himself over domestic and financial troubles.

—A Chicago firm has been awarded the contract for the partial stonework of the government building at Richmond for $11,512.

LANCASER, BARRARD COUNTY.

—Bro. Frank continues to improve slowly and hopes are entertained that he will be up and out soon.

—Some of our farmers are feeding their wheat to their hogs, owing to the depressed condition of the wheat market.

—Mrs. M. F. Holmes takes charge of the Mason Hotel on Monday, the 21st. She is an estimable lady and will keep an excellent house.

—Union services will be held at the Methodist church Sunday evening and the sermon delivered by Rev. J. R. Terry, of the Presbyterian church.

—Homer Batson and his sister, Miss Lula, left Saturday evening for a visit to the World's Fair. Miss Sophronia Smith and Mr. and Mrs. T. Elkin started on Monday for the Windy City.

—In connection with the fact that Miss Georgia Lewis won the Interior Journal's prize in spelling at the Teachers' Institute last week, it would be in place to state that she is a bright member of a bright family. ## GRAB ORCHARD.

—Messrs. Holdman and James have rented the old school building for a warehouse and are storing a big lot of whisky in it.

—Mrs. George Sinclair and Miss Lucretia Bergeron, of New Orleans, and Misses Lizzie and Mollie Burton, of Buckeye, are with Mrs. Curtis Gover.

—Miss Belle Livingstone and Mrs. Maggie Gibbon, of Kansas City, Mo., and Mr. James Livingstone, of Palm Beach, Fla., are guests of Mrs. Stephen Pennington and Rev. Jasper Livingston.

—Mrs. Harriet Abrahams, Mrs. Lizzie Henry, of Knoxville, is the mother of a fine boy which made his appearance last week—John Buchanan Henry.

—Mrs. Harding, who made such a lengthy stay at the Vanderpool House,

—It is said that they walked from here to Stanford and that the girl was robbed of her money and left there. How much of this is true we are unable to say. The grand-parents of the girl are very much distressed about her.

—Mr. A. H. Bastin has nearly completed his new store-room at the depot, which is quite an improvement to that place. He has a coal store in connection with the store and will soon be ready to supply the town with that necessary article. He is a most obliging gentleman and we feel sure he will get the greater part of the patronage in that vicinity.

—For SALE.—A very desirable property in Crab Orchard, situated on Main and Cemetery streets; house has six good rooms, pantry, kitchen and all necessary outbuildings and lot contains three acres of good, rich land. The well of splendid water on this property is worth the price asked for the place, as the late Dr. Graham spoke of it as being worth 50 cents a drink to anyone suffering from kidney or liver trouble. This property commands a good rent price and would be a splendid home for anyone desiring to take advantage of Crab Orchard's noted waters. For terms address Mrs. Bettie Buchanan, Crab Orchard, Ky.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—Frazier Collinsworth, 21, married Mrs. Frances Ecton, 71, in Clark county. He is poor; she has a fine grass farm. The boy is her 5th husband.

—Mrs. Marie E. J. L. S. Willard, of New York, has filed suit against Richard Goodman Platt, of that city, for $50,000 for breach of promise. Mrs. Willard alleges that Mr. Platt promised to marry her, but that after she had lived with him while he refused to keep his promise. She is a grass widow.

—Flocking is a costly pastime out about Spokane, Wash. Twin-in-the-Face Tom Cat, a Kohspell Indian, captured his squaw there, shot her dead and scalped her for having eloped with White Blanket, a Spokane Indian. White Blanket and others caught Tom Cat, cut off his ears, bound him hand and foot and threw him into a fire they had built.

—The Sonnenet Reporter tells of a novel case. Mrs. J. S. Smiley, wife of a grocer there, told her husband that she loved another man and could not live with him longer, although she admitted that he was a model husband and father. She then went before Judge Denton, relinquished her dower, gave up the custody of her two children and departed for Holton, Kas. The woman shows that she is a most unnatural mother and Mr. Smiley should rejoice that he has gotten rid of such a wife, but it is said that he still loves her and prays for her return.

—Graddock, who has never done anything in that line himself, though no fault of his, probably, says in his Kentuckian: "What has got the matter with the boys and girls of this country that so few marriages take place? It is true the weather has its influence upon all nature, causing the flowers to bloom, the birds to put forth and the merry lark to sing upon the topmost branches of the trees, but it should not have a tendency to depress the matrimonial market, which is the life of the country and the prospect of our standing army and stability of our government."

—Ex Postmaster C. W. Richardson, one among our oldest and most respected citizens, departed this life yesterday at his residence in this city after a protracted illness from some throat affection.

Uncle Cy, as he was familiarly called, has resided in this city for the greater part of his life and if he had an enemy on earth we never heard it. He was an honest, clever, upright man, a member of the M. E. Church South and a citizen whose place will be hard to fill.

—The controller says that the Louisville City National is solvent with $10,000 surplus and may resume when it has capital on hand to pay demand liabilities for which extensions have not been granted and to provide for current demands.

LONDON, LAUREL COUNTY.

—A three days' special term of circuit court convened Monday.

—Miss Bebbie Adams, of Garrard, is visiting relatives here.

—Don't fail to attend the Laurel County Fair, the best in the mountains.

—G. W. Faris had a valuable milk cow killed by the train Saturday evening.

—Virge Gross, a negro, stabbed another, name not learned, fatally at Altamont Sunday.

—S. A. Lovelace is the proud and happy father of a little baby girl. Grandfather F. B. Riley is doing well.

—Dalton & Dunn's Candy Co., will be here during the Fair, and if they have a crowd in proportion to the advertising they have Dunn, they will do well.

—Boss Butner, of color, and John Warren were arrested Friday, accused of stealing a pistol belonging to a guest at the Catching House. They gave bond.

—Wm. Stringer, of Pittsburgh, Ky., has been appointed a deputy under United States Marshal Blackburn. He filed a bond Saturday with J. W. Bastin, Geo. W. Given and R. Jackson bondsmen. Democrats who know all the parties are surprised that Stringer should be appointed over such men as F. E. Riley and John T. Hatcher.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—The Southern Presbyterian Church, with less than 200,000 members, has 130 missionaries in the field.

—Over 4,000 colored people attended the State Association of Baptists at Harrodsburg, Sunday. Eight excursion trains came in loaded to the guards.

—The Barnes troupe were in Frankfort, Sunday, where the evangelist preached at night and left next day to hold a 10-days meeting at Carrollton.

—Dr. J. R. Baunes, a minister and religious editor for 25 years, has leased Daughters College for three years and will open it again Sept. 6th with a full faculty.

—In a single ward in Boston, which contains 22,000 inhabitants, there is not a single protestant church. New York, below 14th street is as decidedly missionary grounds as China or Japan.

SEMI-WEEKLY INTERIOR JOURNAL

STANFORD, KY., - AUGUST 22, 1893

W. P. WALTON.

6 OR 8 PAGES.
EVERY FRIDAY.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For Representative,

HARVEY HELM.

For Superintendent of Public Schools,

W. F. MCCLARY.

Gov. McCREARY spoke in favor of the unconditional repeal of the Sherman bill Saturday and his high standing in the House, coupled with the fact that he was a member of the Monetary Conference, caused his speech to be listened to with unusual interest. He took the position that this country could not afford to adopt free coinage at present, as it is impossible for a single country to maintain such a policy. Adopt it here and our $650,000,000 of gold would flow at once to Europe. The only path to the free coinage of silver lay in an international agreement for bimetallism, which, he thought, the repeal of the Sherman bill would insure. He expressed regret that the question of a change of ratio between gold and silver had been injected into this question. He had no sympathy with those who now desired to change the ratio from 16 to 1 to 20 to 1. To change the ratio would be to strike down and destroy every prospect of international agreement. To change the ratio would be to discredit every dollar of silver in the United States. The first duty of Congress was, without delay, to repeal the purchasing clause of the Sherman act; the second duty was to let free coinage alone for the present; its third duty was to stand by a patriotic President in his efforts to advance the prosperity of the people and the welfare of the nation. The governor was frequently interrupted by Mr. Bland, the champion of free coinage, but it did not disconcert him in the least, being always ready with a reply, till the silver loan persisted in misrepresenting him, when he declined longer to be interrupted. Our representative was warmly congratulated at the close of his speech, which was liberally applauded throughout.

SILVER is silver and silence is golden, says the proverb. But in the case of Silver-Tongued Billy Breckinridge we find an exception to this like there is to all other rules. The colonel was down for a speech yesterday, which while it may have been delivered in a silvery manner was not silver, that is to say it was not for silver. On the other hand the silence he is maintaining on a question that affects his moral standing does not appear to be golden, since his enemies are making the most of it and insisting that if he were not guilty he would assert that he wasn't in unmistakable terms, unequivocally and with no purpose of evasion whatever. The colonel may be the victim of a designing woman but all the same there will not be many people to believe it till there is more evidence of it than there has so far been forthcoming.

The first issue of Judge W. M. Finley's Sunday paper, "The Bee," fills even the great expectations that its promised advent had created. Louisville would seem to have a sufficiency of Sunday newspapers, but there is always room for such as Finley's recognized ability as a writer insures. The number before us shows more of honey than of the sting, but there is enough of the latter to warrant that the Bee will use its business end promptly at the smallest provocation. We salute you, Judge Finley, and wish for your venture all the success and prosperity that the most sanguine could imagine.

The Senate Finance Committee tied on the question of unconditional repeal of the Sherman law and the tie was broken by Chairman Voorhees, who voted for unconditional repeal, coupled with a declaration in favor of bimetallism. Harris, Vest, Vance, Jones, he of Arkansas and he of Nevada, voted against the repeal. A poll of the Senate shows a small majority for repeal, but it is said that the body will await the action of the House.

The Virginia democrats chose Congressman Charles T. O'Farrell for their candidate for governor on the first ballot, giving him 1,146 of the 1,305 votes cast. The nomination was then made unanimous. R. C. Kent, of Wythe, was nominated for lieutenant governor by acclamation. The convention was harmonious throughout, showing that the party is thoroughly united.

The Kentucky Baptist abandons its chosen field long enough to remark "that Hon. J. L. Bruce, the admirable Moderator of South District Association would make a model governor." Very true, no doubt, but moderators did not fare very well in the last gubernatorial convention. Dr. Clardy, the boss moderator, fell early in the action.

Another congressman is dead, J. L. Chipman, of Detroit.

WHILE the democrats of Virginia were in convention at Richmond last week, an afternoon paper was circulated in which was a dispatch that Mrs. Cleveland had presented her old man with a boy, or words to that effect. Having implicit confidence that everything printed in the newspapers is true, ex-Gov. Fitzhugh Lee enthusiastically announced the news to the body and moved that a congratulatory dispatch be sent the supposed-to-be-happy father. The motion was adopted and the governor signed his own name to the dispatch. Imagine his chagrin when the item proved to be false. He then went to work to extricate himself from the unpleasant situation and at last accounts had succeeded in doing so. But the next time the ex-governor of Virginia telegraphs about a "possible president" he will be absolutely sure that "unto the pair a child is born, unto them a son is given and the government shall be upon his shoulder."

As Gen. John C. BLACK is now drawing a salary of $5,000 and other perquisites as Congressman at large from the State of Illinois, he will prove to the country he is an honest man, by relinquishing for the time at least the $100 a month voted him by Congress for total disability. The general is fearfully maimed, but he is not totally disabled as long as he is in position to draw a salary from the government or anything else. His case does not come under the pension bureau, as he is the beneficiary of a special act, but he ought himself to discourage such a raid on the treasury as the drawing of two salaries implies. The democrats are pledged to purge the pension lists. Let a democrat be the first to give up a pension he does not now need.

SECRETARY CARLISLE estimates that it would cost the government $112,866,321 to change the ratio of the $149,322,450 silver dollars to the proposed ratio of 20 to 1. The dollar would then be nearly as large as a dinner plate and nobody would take it if he could get paper money or gold.

The Virginia democrats sat down on Senator Daniel by declaring against the free coinage of silver. The senators will learn after a while that all the wisdom is not concentrated in the rich man's club, known as the Senate of the United States.

The Courier-Journal says that the editor of this paper is growing morose and no longer sympathizes with that beautiful state, love's young dream. Wrong, as usual. On the contrary, quite the reverse is true. You don't know, old boy.

FRIENDS of Congressman Breckinridge claim that the candidates who want to win his seat in Congress are at the bottom of the damage suit brought by Miss Pollard. We hope, indeed, that it is no worse than that.

The fact that Mrs. Cleveland is sailing around in a yacht rather discourages the report that has gained currency.

NEWSY NOTES.

It is said that the virus of erysipelas will cure cancer.

—A small crowd attended the Danville court yesterday and business generally was dull. There were probably 50 cattle on the market, but only about 50 changed hands. Two two-year old cattle brought $15 and a lot of three-year-olds were withdrawn at 3¢. Prentiss & Wood sold a bunch of mountain ewes at $1.85. One mule sold at $85 and a pair for $162.

—We predict that E. P. Woods' great saddle stallion, Eagle Bird, will have no trouble in getting the blue tie at Lexington. He is in better shape than he ever

A MODERN EPISODE.

She Still Clings to the Doll She Had Taken Away With Her.

CHAPTER I.
"Nancy, there's only one thing to be done with this child!"

The voice of Mr. Lickladder had that strong, vibrant, masculine quality that frequently asserts itself when the official head of the family is addressing his wife.

"We must send her away to school," continued Mr. Lickladder. "A city like this is no place to bring up children."

"I don't see that Gussie is so very much worse than other children, Silas," piped Mrs. Lickladder.

"Oh, you don't!" retorted Silas. "You don't hear her whistling about the house a hundred times a day, don't you? You can't see that she talks in the dialect of the stockyards, walks with a John L. Sullivan swagger, spends the money we give her for Sunday school purposes in buying ice cream soda, and chews gum on the sly?"

"She's about like other girls of her age, Silas."

"Yes, about like other girls of her age in this town! That's what I said, madam. This is no place for children to grow up in."

"Where do want to send her?"
"To some first class eastern school for girls. I know of one."

CHAPTER II.

"I'll go, mamma," sobbed Gussie. "I'll go away off to that nasty, horrid school and I'll be a good girl if you'll only let me buy that nice, great big doll I saw in Hunker & Spatt's window down town this morning!"

"What do you want of that doll?"
"I want to take it along with me. I won't get so lonesome maybe. I'll dress it every morning just as careful! It'll seem like one of the family, and I shan't get homesick."

The doll was bought, packed in Gussie's trunk, and when the fatal day of her departure came 12-year-old Gussie, smiling through her tears, kissed mother, big brother and little sister goodby and went away with the paternal Lickladder on an east bound train.

CHAPTER III.

"How you have grown, Gussie! Have the three years been long ones, dear?"

"Awfully, mamma! You don't know how strict they are with us. Watch us like hawks. Never let us go anywhere without some of them being along to take care of us. Study, study, study—that's the way it is all the time."

"That's the way it ought to be," interposed Mr. Lickladder in the calm, assured manner of one whose judgment has finally vindicated. "The way to train up a wild girl is to send her to some place where they know how to do that sort of thing."

"You soon got tired of that doll, didn't you, Gussie?"

"Tired of it? Indeed I didn't, mamma! I've got it yet. It's in my trunk. But it's old and all out of shape. I'll take it up stairs and put it away."

Hurriedly opening her trunk, she lifted up the precious doll. It slipped from her fingers and fell to the floor. Mr. Lickladder picked it up. Something in its appearance struck him as curious and he proceeded to inspect. There was a flap on the back buttoned up. He unbuttoned it and examined the doll on the inside.

It was full of cigarettes.—Chicago Tribune.

Something to Look Forward To.

Figgs—a shooting of a mutual friend who is given to egotism!—Did you hear of the accident that has happened to Brown? He has broken his leg in two places.

Foggs—You don't mean it! It will be an awful pity if he should die. If he recovers, what a continual source of pleasure it will be to him to talk about!—Boston Transcript.

No Safe Man.

Bingo—You would better not let that druggist on the corner put up any prescriptions for you. He doesn't know his business.

Mrs. Bingo—Why, what has he done?

Bingo—He sold me a bottle of cough mixture yesterday that he didn't make himself.—Club.

A Slow Process.

Miss Passoe seems to be aging rapidly.

"On the contrary, she ages slowly. Ask her, and you will discover that she is only two years older now than she was ten years ago.—Harper's Bazaar.

Never Mind the Age.

Mr. Trotter—Could you marry a very old man with a good deal of money if he told you frankly how old he was and how much he was worth?

Miss Timely—How much is he worth?—Vogue.

A Conditional Reply.

Mr. Gilley—Will you share my lot, Miss Gildersleeve?

Miss Gildersleeve—Build a $10,000 home on it and then ask me again.—Detroit Free Press.

A Similarity.

"Yes," she said, "the waves in a storm remind me of our hired girl at home."

"Hired girls, madam?"

"Yes, they are awful breakers."—Texas Sittings.

Keeping the Faith.

During the prevalence of the Grippe the past season, it was a noticeable fact that those who depended on Dr. King's New Discovery did not have a single relapse, while those who did not have a specific remedy, suffered all the troubesome after effects of the malady. This remedy has a peculiar power in effecting rapid cures, not only in cases of the Grippe, but in all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs. Long cured cases of Asthma and Hay Fever of long standing. Try it and be convinced. It won't disappoint. Free trial bottles at A. R. Penny's drug store.

Dr. M. J. Davis is a prominent physician of Lewis, Cass county, Iowa, and has been actively engaged in the practice of medicine at that place during the past 25 years. On the 20th of May, while in Des Moines en route to Chicago, he was suddenly taken with an attack of grippe. Having sold Chamberlain's Cough, Cold and Diarrhea Remedy for over 17 years, and knowing its reliability, he procured a 25 cent bottle, two doses daily, and received almost immediate relief. I continued to use the medicine and was entirely cured. I take pleasure in recommending this remedy to all who are suffering from such a disease as I opinion it is the best medicine in existence." 25 cents for six bottles for sale by W. B. McRoberts, Druggist, Stanford.

WISE SAYINGS.

—Prayers may be too rhetorical; they can not be too earnest.—United Presbyterian.

—He that rebukes a private fault openly betrays it rather than reproves it.—Quarles.

—Measure a man's divinity by his reverence for the Divine everywhere.—Interior.

—A beautiful behavior is better than a beautiful form; it is the finest of fine arts.—Emerson.

—If it is more blessed to give than to receive, then they who do not give voluntarily shut themselves out from the greatest blessedness.—Standard.

—Nothing so clearly discovers a spiritual man as his treatment of an erring brother, wishing to restore rather than to upbraid him.—Augustine.

—The world is greatly indebted to men whose heroic courage has been trained and strengthened by the discipline of a religious life.—Christian Register.

—I would not cast the thorns away. That mild my roses grow to-day.

—Nor have the cup which God doth fill.

—Hold one drop less of seeming ill.

—Kate Cameron.

—Who has a greater combat than that laboreth to overcome himself. This ought to be our endeavor, to conquer and to make a further growth in holiness.—Thomas a Kempis.

—Quietness under one's roof and quietness in our own conscience are two substantial blessings, which, whenever bartered for show and pomp, will find himself loser by the exchange.

—Repentance is not all pain. There is a secret sweetness which accompanies those tears of remorse, those meltings and relentings of a soul returning unto God, and lamenting its former unkindness.—Scougal.

—Practice a holy tact. If your husband is more ready to hear the Gospel message in some other church than your own, don't quarrel with him; go where he is likely to receive a blessing.—Rev. T. L. Cuyler.

—Despondency is not a state of humility. On the contrary, it is the vexation and despair of a cowardly pride; nothing is worse. Whether we stumble or whether we fall, we must only think of rising again and going on in our course.—Fenelon.

—True peace is the blessing of the Gospel. It may be sorted into these three: (1) Peace with God—peace of reconciliation. (2) Peace with ourselves—peace of conscience. (3) Peace with another—peace of love and unity.—Gurnall.

—There are Christians not strong in the affections (emotions) who are nevertheless not to be judged weak in grace. What is thus wanting, God often makes up in solidity of judgment, clearness of knowledge, abundance of experience and stableness of faith.—Love.

—Whim an infinite blessing to see that his bosom law there is love, that his friends are not to commit themselves to any one else, as he is forced to stay at home and work. His candidacy is subject to the action of the democratic party.
